2014-2015 Season

4000 Miles by Amy Herzog. Directed by David Barbanera
After suffering a major loss while on a cross-country bike trip, 21-year-old Leo seeks solace from his grandmother Vera in her small apartment. Over the course of a single month, these unlikely roommates withstand, befriend, and ultimately reach out to each other. 4000 Miles looks at how two outsiders find their way together in today's world. Herzog's powerful, emotional portrait was a 2013 Pulitzer Prize Finalist for Drama and the winner of the 2012 Obie Award for Best New Play.
Nov. 21—Dec. 7

The Vagina Monologues by Eve Ensler. Directed by Gabe Hetherington Women's varied roles in society are explored in this modern classic comedy about the demands of womanhood. A conglomerate group of women struggle to fill the narrowly defined roles of wife, mother, consummated, aging beauty. This satirical expose exposes the exploitative set for women by themselves, others, and ultimately by society as a whole.
Feb. 6—Feb. 22

Faith Healer by Brian Friel. Directed by Jack Souza
In this deeply tragic tale of lies, secrets, and self-deception, four contradictory accounts of shared events shaped among three characters: the story of Frank Hardy, a traveling salesman who also occasionally heals people; the other angry, but still loving wife; his manager, who has given up his career to promote Frank; and the hardships of the eunuchs who lead to story's climax.
"One of the rare works of art audiences are destined to recall as a deeply personal experience.
A powerful piece of writing." The New York Times
