

California Guided Pathways Project – Coach Biographies

Chris Hill, MiraCosta College

During her community college career, Chris Hill has served in faculty leadership (i.e., curriculum co-chair and Academic Senate president) and in administrative positions spanning both instruction and student services, all of which helps her bring a broad, student-focused perspective to her work. She currently serves as the Dean of Research, Planning, and Institutional Effectiveness at MiraCosta College. Chris has led initiatives and facilitated college-wide work (such as guided pathways, Achieving the Dream, and integrated planning) that has resulted in transformational approaches to student success and institutional effectiveness. She does so by engaging faculty, classified staff, administrators and students in meaningful discussions on how the college can improve processes and/or alter approaches, and by coalescing the ideas generated into a coherent plan for implementation and evaluation.
