Director Novoa reported that they met on Monday February 24, 2020. They discussed the Decision-Making Principles, they went over the seconded reading and they decided that it would be organized better by adding a Responsible Individual Key; Childcare was also added to the topic discussion. They also discussed the Measure E Bond, where a survey was given to the community to see if they support the bond. They mentioned that the State is providing 200,00,000 for all the community colleges, which is a small portion. The bond is 500,050,000 and was voted by 65% of the community. They mentioned that the next step is getting the board to pass this bond. If it is passed by the board, bond money will be used to bring back dental labs, music, ag and art areas. Another priority would be to repair and repaint many buildings as well as a better security system for the whole campus. They also talked about the Educational Master Plan, where Jennifer Zellet gave an update, about halfway through completing the EMP, and having guided pathways is a floorplan for the college. It is focused on the work groups around the college rather than the work itself. Engaging all voices is in the process of being revised because it is a big part of the EMP. All still under review.

- i. Instruction Council: Raymond Gonzales
Senator Gonzales reported that they had a brief discussion on Guided Pathways. It is still in the process of editing the online roadmaps and corrections are still being made to ensure students fully understand the roadmaps. Specifically, they talked about the math classes, and making them more flexible and determining which of them are transferable and making this clear to the students who see the maps. They ended the discussion with confirmation that nothing is set in stone yet, and that the design online is subject to change.
- j. Student Success and Equity: Daniela Sarabia
Senator Sarabia reported that Guided Pathways is trying to come up with a link that will provided students with better information on what they want to major in, they are proving a new roadmap to better assist students. She mentioned that the website is constantly being updated, and that students are encourage to meet with an academic counselor to be better informed. They also talked about the BIT, which is the Behavioral Intervention Team, they mentioned that this program provided students with support. It is a program that combats bullying, prevents violence, and supports individuals with disabilities. Professors can file a report on a student that is acting out and then it creates a case. They have a rubric scale that is divided into two sections ane-scale and ad-scale. Ane-scale is focused on violent behavior while ad-scale focuses on emotional health and stress. The scale is then divided into four levels milde, moderate, elevated, critical.
